ABOUT TOM HUBLER

Tom Hubler began his family business consulting practice in 1980 as one of the few professionals addressing family-owned businesses in the United States. As an experienced senior consultant and trusted advisor, he has counseled more than 500 private family businesses over the course of his career.

The acknowledged “dean” of family business consulting, Tom continues to shape this important field, helping families strengthen connections and eliminate barriers to healthy, productive family and business relationships. He has seen first-hand the challenges family businesses face and shares ways to help them grow through them (or prevent them if possible) in his book, The Soul of Family Business.

Tom is a founding member and fellow of the Family Firm Institute in Boston, a professional organization serving the needs of family business professionals. For more than 10 years, he was a professional-in-residence and taught family business management at the University of St. Thomas in St. Paul, Minnesota. He has published more than 50 articles and scholarly papers and has been a guest on NBC's TODAY show. He speaks on cutting-edge family business issues nationally and internationally, and has been frequently quoted in The New York Times Sunday Magazine, Washington Post, and Wall Street Journal.

Tom lives in St. Paul, Minnesota with his wife, Joy. Together, they enjoy life with two adult children and their spouses and seven grandchildren.
